Why Do We Care? A Workshop on the Care of Creation

Wednesday, October 12 @ 10:00 am - 1:30 pm

Both Pope Francis and the Sisters of the Cross and Passion have set out the Care of Creation as a central mission. Why does the church see responding to the climate crisis as such a core consequence of Christ's teachings, and what are some practical things we can do in our lives and communities to support that mission?

Come join through music, prayer, large and small group discussion, and reflection to find a deeper sense of your own calling to hear the cry of the poor and the cry of the earth and discover practical steps you and your community can take towards the care of creation.

This program includes lunch.

Susan Morse, a longtime Associate of the Sisters of the Cross and Passion, has spent a lifetime caring for creation through her devotion to the healthy growth and development of the individual, the family, the community, and the earth. As a mother, grandmother, nurse, teacher, and spiritual director sustained by her faith, she sees through the lens of God's love and care, always seeking the best practices through faith and science.

Tim Morse, Ph.D. is a Professor Emeritus of Occupational and Environmental Health at the UConn Health Center. He is the Chair of the Climate Reality Project southern Connecticut Chapter which promotes education on climate change.
